Asset Strategy

Collaborative approach to improving the use of buildings across the public estate

Since 2012, the Scottish Futures Trust (SFT) has been working with the public sector to help guide them to look differently at the buildings they occupy for the services they need to deliver.

The public sector across Scotland has recognised its need to deliver a smaller, leaner, greener, and more effective and smarter property estate. The essence of this approach is increased sharing of fewer buildings, improving collaboration, delivering significant efficiencies and savings, and identifying opportunities for wider benefits based on new smarter ways of working.

In 2019, Scottish Government in conjunction with SFT published a Central Estate Strategy document aimed at encouraging a more corporate and collaborative approach across the public estate.
