Speed of delivering COVID vaccination centres sets hub programme apart

The hub Programme is a Scotland-wide partnership, managed by SFT, that brings public sector bodies together with a private sector partner that jointly plans, builds and manages community infrastructure projects, such as schools and health centres across five geographic territories.

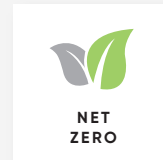

In October 2020 hub South East was requested by NHS Lothian to help them deliver COVID-19 mass vaccination centres. With support provided by SFT, hub South East worked at pace to identify suitable sites and negotiate terms with the various building owners, then assembled supply chains capable of delivering the testing facilities.

hub South East was flexible in every aspect of this project, including mobilising resource and providing options at extreme pace due to the urgency of the situation and delivered or were involved in testing centres at:

- Queen Margaret University
- The Pyramid Centre, Bathgate
- The Royal Highland Centre, Ingliston
- The Royal Bank of Scotland, The Gyle Shopping Centre
- Edinburgh International Conference Centre

The facilities became available progressively from early February 2021.

Speaking of the challenges hub South East faced, Andrew Milne, NHS Lothian Project Director said: "One of the most exciting projects we've done with hub South East recently, and one of the most challenging has been the vaccination stations. It's not often you get the chance to say the world has changed, but it really has. And the contribution that hub South East made was extremely important to the welfare of the country.

"hub South East were our 'go to' guys when it came to getting these vaccination stations built quickly and efficiently. We looked at the whole range of services that were available, ranging from design, construction, strategic support, through to FM services and came to hub South East to deliver. And it did! It's a very important piece of work for the nation."
